

David J. Neuman

University Architect
Associate Vice Provost of Planning

The Leland Stanford Junior University March, 1989 - December, 2003

For understanding the purpose, mission and nuances of Stanford University's campus and lands, insisting on high quality results and high standards of service for this Board, its Chairs, leadership, and members;

For understanding the contributions and commitment that individual Trustees, faculty, staff and students make to this University, and recognizing the variety of ways in which they may serve;

For steady stewardship in protecting Stanford's lands, fostering a professional relationship with regulatory officials, while maximizing future flexibility in anticipation of future stewards of Stanford University lands;

For returning to the planning principles of Frederick Olmstead's physical plan and realizing the benefits, while facing the scrutiny and challenges of this action;

For organizing and structuring the campus environment that espouses the qualities which Stanford University represents, and creating a sense of place that is unique, open and friendly;

For creating a place of beauty, enjoyed by many, and appreciated by all;

The Board of Trustees of the Leland Stanford Junior University thanks David J. Neuman for his fourteen years of service as University Architect, Associate Vice Provost, and Director of the Planning Office, and for the exemplary professional and personal leadership he brought to that role.
